Dear fri.

On the 9th. inst (about ten days after my return here from Mexico) I received a large mail, returned to me from El Paso, having failed, through the carelessness of the Postmaster at Santa Fe, to reach me there as it should have done. Among the letters was yours of the 1st. of September last, which I have perused with great interest.

Please write and let me know if the barrel of cacti, which I forwarded to you from El Paso in July last, reached you, and if in good condition. — if many of the plants were alive, &c.

You ask me to explain the sentence in my letter of July which alludes to the place of final deposite of the specimens. I will do so with pleasure. What I meant by it was this: The government will wish, if it be possible, to possess a full set of the specimens collected by its various expeditions to be preserved here, at the seat of Government, say in the Cabinet or green house of the ~~Smithsonian Institution~~. All the plants that can be preserved alive will be put into the green house, labelled to shew from what collection or expedition they came, and scrupulously with the names (genus, species, &c) of the plants, and the name of the naturalist who ~~first~~ described them.

It is not intended so to deposite them until after their descriptions are published, thus securing the professional credit to the describing naturalist. After these publications, or before should it be necessary to preserve them alive, duplicates of them may be deposited as you suggest any where that you might desire.

If a set is preserved alive for deposito in Washington, I will, after you have described them fully, see that they are brought here at the public expense.

Now, please let me know if you see any objection to this course. It seems to me if it be practicable to carry it out, it is the best way to give the due fame & credit to the describing naturalist. I shall be most happy however to adopt any suggestions from you on this point, and indeed I now authorise you to distribute them in the manner suggested in your letter, in this Country & Europe, provided there are enough of them, without waiting further instructions.

Should Mr. Wright send you further collections, which I am sure he will do, all the specimens marked as collected previous to December 1st. 1857 will belong to my Contributions and they you will note them accordingly. He acted under my command & direction up to that time.

I wish you would send me as soon as possible, a synopsis of any that you may have found to be new among those you have already received, indicating genera, species, &c after your own naming. I am now engaged on a curious report to the Department of the Interior, giving a mere outline of what has been done, and as I am to embrace a short account of what we discovered new in the zoological department, from the pens of Professors Baird & Girard, I would like to add from your pen whatever may have been found new among the Cactaceous plants. Of course you more full descriptions, if not yet completed, will be received hereafter & published with the general report upon the expedition.
